

The Lancet and Financial Times Commission

Governing health futures 2030: growing up in a digital world

Meeting: International Actors in Digital Health

2 September 16:00 to 18:00 IHEID

Thank you for joining us for the first of its kind meeting for International Actors in Digital Health. Aimed at building partnerships and cooperation, the meeting offered an opportunity to share developments of the forthcoming joint Lancet and Financial Times Commission, Governing Health Futures 2030: growing up in a digital world. The Commission has been established to explore the convergence of digital health, artificial intelligence (AI) and universal health coverage (UHC) with a focus on the health and well-being of children and young people.

The Secretariat of the Commission is housed at the Global Health Centre of the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies in Geneva (IHEID) and will run from April 2019 to December 2021. The launch and first meeting of the Commission is to be held in Berlin directly following the World Health Summit on the 30 & 31 October.

The meeting material shared included a current list of Commissioners, the vision of the Commission including a circle and triangle diagram as well as a brief of the Commission.

The meeting provided space to bring together international organizations with a Geneva base to share current initiatives, organizational reports and strategies that exist and/or being developed in relation to the Commission.

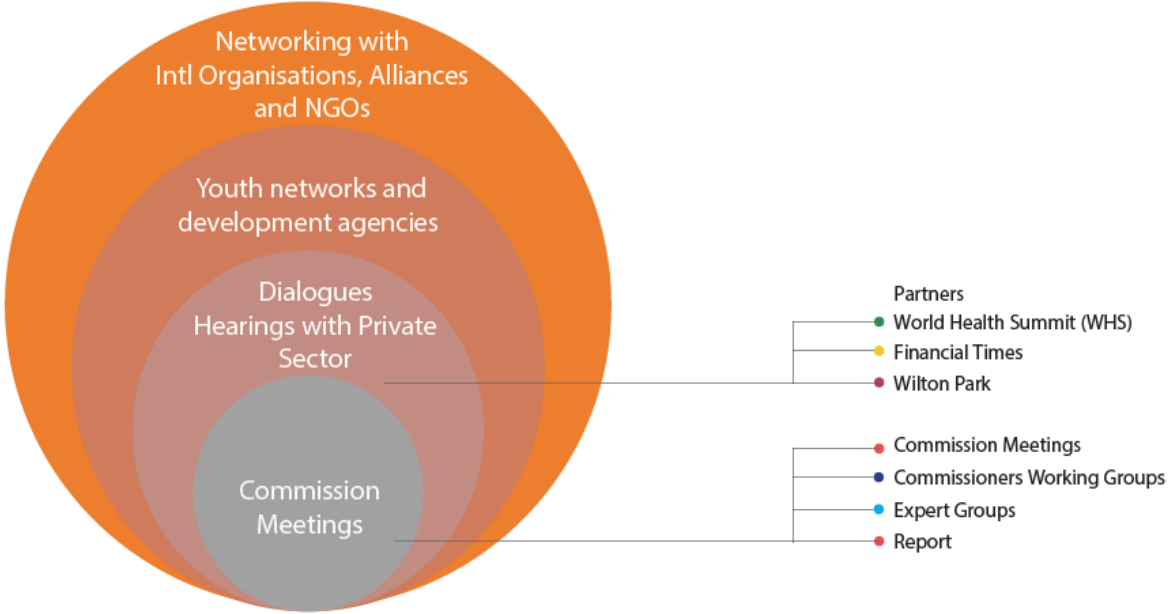

There were 28 attendees from 13 different organisations (list attached).

An overview of the Commission was made by co-chair, Dr Ilona Kickbusch, followed by introductions and a brief roundtable from all international actors present. A few themes that were raised:

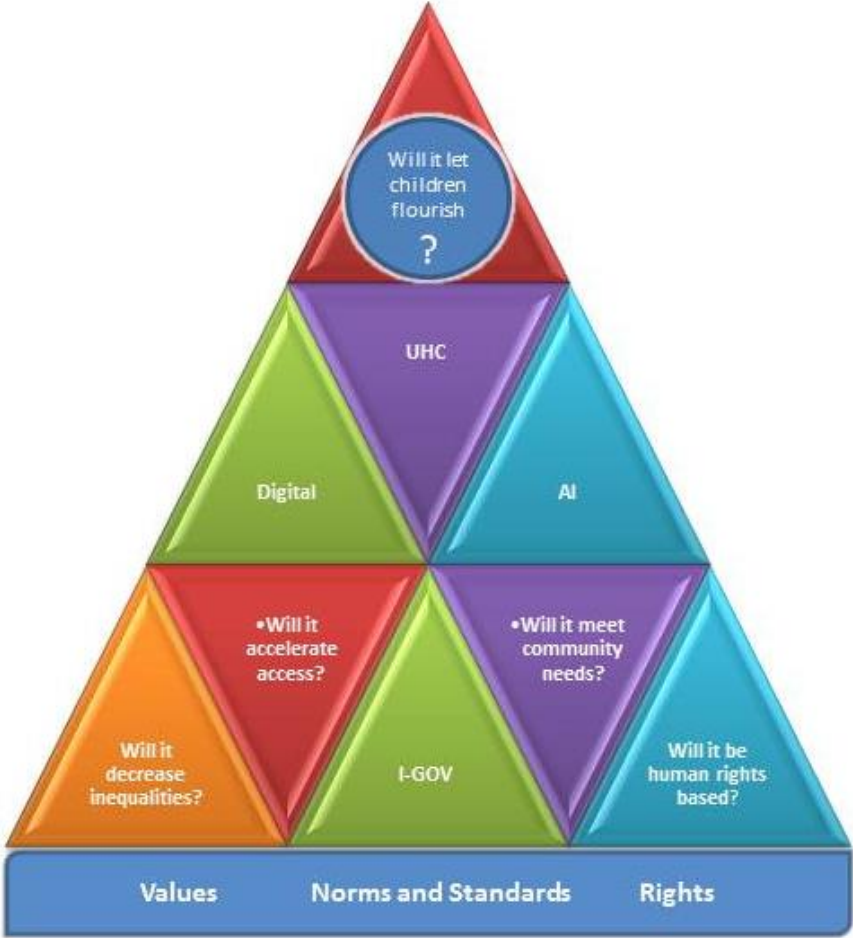

- Will the Commission focus on specific health issues that are needed to tackle, including where and how to do so
- A focus on global public goods / digital public goods
- Financing, how and to what ends
- Establishing a multisectoral and interdisciplinary approach

The next meeting will take place around January 2020 and more information will be sent out closer to that time.
